

C. A. HUTCHISON RITES TODAY

Local Shriners to Attend Funeral at Herndon, Virginia.

Clarence A. Hutchison, 1701 Kilbourne place, who died Tuesday afternoon, following a stroke of apoplexy, will be buried today in Chestnut Hill Cemetery at Herndon, Va., his former home.

No services will be held here, but a special car will leave Thirty-sixth and M streets at 11:30 tomorrow morning, which will carry his Washington friends and relatives, including a delegation of local Shriners. The services will be held under the auspices of the Masonic lodge.

He is survived by a brother, Dr. Hugh B. Hutchison, of Washington, and three sisters—Mrs. Wesley Kephart, of Pinecrest, Va.; Miss Mary Hutchison, of Washington; and Miss Selma Hutchison, of Baltimore.

Funeral of S. A. Taylor.
Samuel A. Taylor, who died Saturday at Johnson City, Tenn., was buried yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock in Arlington National Cemetery. Services were conducted at Ryan's funeral parlors, 1748 W street southwest, survives him.

Buried in Michigan.
William Berwick, master repairer of historic records in the Library of Congress, who dropped dead Monday at the library, was buried yesterday in Lansing, Mich., his former home. He had been in charge of this work for twenty-one years, and had restored many historical documents that were damaged by accident or carelessness. Authorities at the Vatican conferred with him regarding his work during his trip abroad. The wills of George and Martha Washington were repaired by Berwick. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

Rites for H. O. Jefferson.
Howard O. Jefferson, who died Monday at his home at 77 G street southwest, was buried at Woodlawn Cemetery Maryland, yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Services were held at the residence. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Olive Jefferson; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jefferson; and his sisters, Mrs. J. P. Hallstork, and Aline and Thelma Jefferson, all of this city.

Birthday Greeting

ANDREW JACKSON BOYER.
Veteran printer and newspaperman, who today celebrates his 51st birthday anniversary, was born near Chambersburg, Pa. He has been a member of the Typographical Union since 1862. After publishing newspapers in Maryland, Ohio and California, he came to Washington in 1881 and joined the force of the Government Printing Office. He has been historian of the California State Association of the District for twenty-four years.

Big Story Breaks In Composing Room Just at Presstime

Danville, Va., Aug. 4.—A Danville newspaper was about to go to press this afternoon when the biggest story of the day broke right in its own office.

C. A. Loop, a typesetter, accused Lawrence Ferguson, a linotype operator, with insulting his wife and lunged at him with a knife.

Loop's attack bore the younger man down. Reporters grabbed Loop before he had a chance to stab Ferguson a second time. The knife hit a rib and the blade snapped. Ferguson was not hurt seriously.

The newspaper scored a clean scoop on the story.

FIGHTS TO BAN PRISON STRIPES

Dr. E. E. Dudding Relief Society Director Waging Campaign Against Suit.

A grim suit of prison stripes is on display in the windows of the Prison Relief Society, 509 E street northwest, and hundreds of persons are daily passing the window wondering whether this uniform is still in use in the prisons of the country.

Dr. E. E. Dudding, director of the society, is waging a campaign against the use of this uniform. It is still in use for certain inmates of the Maryland penitentiary.

Thousands of persons have been the insignia of the Jean val jeans of society since Mr. Dudding placed it on display some weeks ago. Thousands of boys have seen it. It is, according to Mr. Dudding, an eyecore and a blemish on the fair-mindedness of society. He is seeking the co-operation of powerful organizations to put it into the discard.

MOTHERS REPORT TWO GIRLS MISSING

Elizabeth Halsey, 14 years old, of 1341 Clifton street northwest, was struck with the wanderlust yesterday afternoon and left home.

Her mother found a note about 4 o'clock written by her daughter, stating that she had run away. The frantic mother gave a description of the girl as being of slight build, red hair, face slightly freckled and blue eyes.

No trace of the girl has yet been found.

Little Wyona Stephens, 11 years old, of 306 Thirty-fourth street northeast, Mrs. Rainier, Md., also felt the "call of the wild" yesterday. Her note, which read, "I've gone away. Good-by, mother," was the only clue she left.

MOTHER OF NINE KILLED BY TRAIN

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Virginia Southern, 49, wife of James Southern, of Jefferson County, was struck and fatally hurt by a passenger train at Duffield this forenoon and died shortly after she was brought to Martinsburg.

She was crossing the tracks with a suitcase when the locomotive struck her. Her skull was fractured. She never regained consciousness.

She was the mother of nine children, who survive her.

Mrs. Southern was coming to Martinsburg on a shopping trip.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD SCHOOL BUREAU OF INFORMATION

Washington is a city of broad culture. It is the most beautiful as well as the most interesting city in America, and is not only the center of governmental affairs but is fast developing into an educational center as well.

To our portals yearly come a host of strangers. Every State and Territory is represented here and distant island possessions as well.

The WASHINGTON HERALD, striving to be of service, has established a School Bureau of Information for the benefit of those who seek information on educational matters.

Nearly five million men, enrolled in the service of this country during the world war, learned that an education was a sure stepping stone to advancement. Now that the war has ended these men, many of them, are seeking to benefit their condition by study. Public interest in education has been quickened as never before.

Have you a son or daughter for whom you are planning higher educational advantages without knowing just what you require or where to get best results?

If so THE WASHINGTON HERALD may be able to help you.

Information of school facilities of Washington will be gladly furnished free of charge.
